A Little Politics
A Real King
A Rich City
Pulling a Coolidge

D R. WORK, who knows this country well, says Hoover will break the solid South, carrying several States there. Mr. Rankin says the Democrats will carry Pennsylvania. You will know in a few weeks.

Wall Street bets even that Governor Smith will carry New York. Recently the "Street" bet to 1 on Smith. What changed Wall Street's mind is not known. Perhaps Hoover backers have more money to bet, and are betting it.

Next Sunday 3,000 Chicago churches will pray for Divine guidance in the coming election. Chicago Church Federation is worrying about the local election.

Results, doubtless, will show whether or not Providence refuses to interfere in political matters, as some of the churches refuse.

King Zog of Albania pulled down the flag of the republic and made himself king. A slavist Albanian of the old kind, that used to chase travelers with bear heads, has modern ways, with a neat little moustache, clipped on both sides in the modern fashion, and more medals than Marshal Foch ever had.

Some asked, will Zog be a real king. No more doubt. On Sunday he arrested 200 conspirators against his throne, hanged 11, and will probably hang more.

You understand how New York city can supply rich politicians to several generations of active politicians when you consider that city's wealth.

This year taxable values are increased by one billion, four hundred and ninety-one millions of dollars.

Taxable property, a year ago, was taxed at sixteen billions, one hundred and fifty-three millions. This year the figure is raised to sixteen billions, one hundred and sixty-four millions. These are the figures that will be used in the coming year.

Great is the power of alcohol. The German people, says the "Times," are drinking more.

Will Rogers, praising Herbert Hoover for paying no attention to Democratic attacks, says "first won't answer. He is not a Coolidge, and is getting the Democratic goods." You may not know that "to pull a Coolidge" means to say little.

Eight thousand bankers in Philadelphia discussing national welfare and possibilities of increasing bank dividends, start against inflation, say broken banks are too high and the federal reserve should "act as a brake on speculation."

The federal reserve has done fairly well. It has not been able to charge 10 per cent for call loans, yesterday's rate, absolutely good security, and 7 1/2 per cent for first class mortgage loans.

This provides a good imitation of a paralytic and a happy hunting ground.

Will our bankers explain how other countries manage? This country, significantly rich, was able to lead five thousand million dollars to France, France, after a long war is poor, her money worth only twenty cents on the dollar. But in yesterday's New York Times you read "The Paris money market has been tighter on the approach of month end payments. Call money rate remains at 1 1/2 per cent."

"Outside discounts stand steady the week from 10 to 15 per cent. Nevertheless, the money market is considered generally satisfactory."

NO WARDEN.
Mr. De Valera, leader of irascible Irish republicans, warns us that Britain is arming Irish ports to fight the "Falls." These ports will be used by Britain as a base for attack of American commerce. That's the important news, especially as there isn't much American commerce in the Irish Sea. As the late Frank Munsey said, "to arrest a ship's mail."

BOILER CRUSHED, BURSTS;
SCORES ESCAPE BURNS
A score of workmen narrowly escaped severe burns in Glasgow today when a boiler at a power station burst.

The Woottony area bridge fell on the boiler underneath, causing an explosion.

W. H. Colbert, district engineer, jumped when the boiler fell and workmen nearby were able to reach safety before steam could escape them.

Backs Her Auto Off 26-Foot Bank As Train Passes

Backing her car over a 26-foot embankment bordering the railroad tracks today just as a Boston-bound freight train was passing, Mrs. Margaret Murphy of Newport terrace, Wollaston, narrowly escaped landing in front of the train.

She backed the auto out of Newport terrace on to Newport st. and, mistaking the width of the street, the machine went down the bank and overturned, but remained pinned on top of a wall as first above the tracks.

Although only shaken, Mrs. Murphy could not extricate herself. Fire Chief Alf-McMann, who was passing, saw her plight and rescued her.

Carl A. Gillette, 34, of Tremont st., Somerville, was confined for a week when McCarthy asked him to back the car for the dock but they might have opportunity to minimize counsel.

STATE PROBES 'MURDER' OF 15 YEARS AGO

Great Barrington, Oct. 2.—Dist. Atty. Charles Wright of Pittsfield today took a hand in the "murder mystery," unearthed here after 15 years when Chief of Police William L. Cochran received information supporting to identify an alleged victim and his slayer.

The police official arrived here today, and a short time later left in an automobile with Chief Cochran, who refused to reveal their destination. The chief said they would return tonight.

The police official admitted he had received information that a man named John in 1913 as an unidentified suicide, was in reality a prominent business man and victim of murder.

He said he was working on a tip which gave the identity of the victim and his slayer, but declared he had not verified the information.

away, and she fell, shot through the back and chest.

Walking back to the car, Andrews took the second shotgun from the car and placed the barrel in the middle of his feet and pulled the trigger with his foot, blowing off the upper part of his body. Andrews then three dead when found a few minutes later by relatives and friends.

The immediate cause of the triple shooting is believed to have been a court order received from the Hartford Superior Court to strip Andrews of his rights to the privilege of having his daughter with him two weeks every month had been resided on a motion of her mother, because of interference with her school work.

He had brooded over this yesterday and had requested several attorneys to prepare to fight the order for him.

SEEK BROTHER AND SISTER AS 'KIDNAPERS'

Charged with kidnaping their 23-year-old sister, Catherine, of 12 Brookdale st., Roslindale, warrants were issued today for the arrest of Frances Butler, 26, and her 24-year-old brother, James, both formerly of Glenville, Ct.

The warrants were based on information furnished by Mrs. Maude E. King of 12 Brookdale st., aunt of the Butler children, who some years ago took Catherine into her home and later adopted her.

The little girl was kidnaped yesterday from the grounds of the Washington Irving school, West Roxbury, 24 hours after she had refused to accompany her sister and brother to Chicago, according to the police.

Special Officer Martin P. Kelly of Division 17, who obtained the warrants in West Roxbury court, learned that a young man resembling James Butler had paid two boys 40 cents to find Catherine before she entered school. The boys made a search, but according to Officer Kelly's information, the man found Catherine first.

According to the police the story goes back 10 years ago when the parents of the Butler children died in Wilmamantic, Conn., of influenza, leaving six orphans.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson of Roslindale, Mrs. Peterson being an aunt of the children, took Catherine and Lawrence, 2, into their home, the other four going to various families. Four years ago the Petersons took Frances, but she remained with them only a short time, going back to Connecticut, where, with James, she was employed in Glenville.

A year later the Petersons took out guardianship papers for Catherine and Lawrence, and two years ago Peterson died. Last January the widow married Michael King, the couple continuing to make their home in the Brookdale st. house.

Sunday, according to Mrs. King, Frances and James arrived at the house, announcing they were tired of working for a small wage, and that they wanted to go to Chicago with the remainder of the children and establish their own home.

As they apparently had only the vaguest idea of how a home should be established, Mrs. King said she opposed the plan, and both Catherine and Lawrence refused to accompany them.

Frances and James remained for dinner and left at 6 o'clock. On Monday morning Catherine went to school, but failed to return in the afternoon. An investigation was started and the police were notified.

SCION OF HUB BANKER IN SEA ROMANCE

Daughter of a Liverpool shipowner, beguile a swimming instructor on a boat of a rival line—just as a stark—Francis Lee Higginson, scion of the Hub banking family, will marry her on October 19.

Two weeks from London today brought word of the engagement of Higginson to Miss Dorothy Lucas, daughter of James Lucas, engineering superintendent of the Furness Withy Steamship Co.

The couple met on the Cunard steamship Franconia when Dorothy, 19, and Higginson, 24, were on a world cruise and there were a number of moonlight nights to top off the daily swims of the young people.

Miss Lucas, an attractive brunette, lives at Bunnell Road near Liverpool, and the secret of their engagement came out yesterday when she met him in that city after he had landed from the same ship on which their romance began.

"Our romance has been a closely guarded secret," said Dorothy.

Big Crowd at Brockton on New England Day

Turnouts at the Brockton Fair registered more than 10,000 visitors before noon to participate in New England Day on the extensive grounds, and fair officials anticipated a crowd of 25,000 before nightfall.

The morning feature was the horse show, in which there were at least 200 entries in 23 classes. This was followed by the daily racing card, for the winners of which there was a total of $4000 in prizes.

The exhibits of the boy and girl competitors in the Plymouth county all clubs drew a large and appreciative gallery, and many expressions of commendation were bestowed on the prize winners for cooking, sewing, basketry and other objects by the girls and the handicraft objects by the boys.

City and suburban cellar coal shovellers who long about their annual winter business are invited by the management of the fair to witness—or take part in—the great shoveling contest, which is to be held on the fair grounds.

U. S. Hunts 'Quake Base' in Gravity's Home

Washington, Oct. 2 (AP)—Preparations were complete today at the Washington Navy Yard for an underwater expedition forced to study the secret of the earth's gravity pull with an objective of revealing the mysterious origin of earthquakes, tidal waves and volcanoes.

The expedition, headed by Dr. F. L. Yeady, Johns Hopkins distinguished Dutch scientist, departs tomorrow on the submarine S-1 and the Ketch boats 35 and 38 for the Naros Deep, north of Porto Rico, the deepest hole known in the western hemisphere, a depth of approximately five miles.

The expedition also will seek to determine the contour of the earth on the Atlantic continental shelf and will make studies over the Sigsbee Deep in the Gulf of Mexico and the Bartlett Deep in the Caribbean sea. It is followed by the naval observatory and will return in about two months.

COOLIDGE SEES PLOT TO MAKE U. S. PAY

Washington, Oct. 2 (AP)—President Coolidge looks upon Premier Poincare's suggestion of last Saturday in a speech in France that allied evacuation of the Ruhr and final settlement of reparations be conducted with the war debt payments to the United States as tending to have the American taxpayer pay for German reparations.

He regards the question of world war debts to this country, virtually all of which have been settled, as closed, and he looks with great disfavor upon all moves to connect the problem with other European matters.

The President sees little benefit to be drawn from a continued discussion of the possibility of linking war debts and war reparations. He is convinced that an effort has been made in the past to tie up the two questions so similar efforts will be repeated in the future.

COFFIN COVERED AS FIREMEN FIGHT BLAZE

A wake for Mrs. Theresa Cusul, 80, who died Sunday, which was being held in the home of her son, Lorenzo Cusul, Flatbush st., Malden, was interrupted when sparks from the chimney set the house afire. Firemen covered the cockpit with rubber blankets and extinguished the blaze after a loss estimated at $500.

There was a large gathering of mourners in the house when the fire was discovered by Thomas J. Murphy of Jackson st., Malden, a passing milkman, who gave the alarm. Police notified the undertaker who hurried to the house prepared to remove the casket, but it was not necessary.

CADMAN TO COMBINE CHURCH WITH RADIO

New York, Oct. 2 (AP)—Dr. R. Of the religious issue in the Presidential campaign, Dr. Cadman said: "There's only one thing to do about that, and that is to keep it out."

MRS. LARZ ANDERSON OPENS "WELD" TO AID DISABLED EX-SERVICE MEN, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Frances Scottwell, Mary Porter Wardwell, Thelma V. Cutler
THREE LITTLE MAIDS OF THE NORTH SHORE

Sale of Exchange's Wares in Garden, If Weather Is Pleasant Tomorrow; Indoors, If Rain Descends

TOMORROW IS AN IMPORTANT DATE IN THE ANNALS OF THE DISABLED EX-SERVICE MEN'S EXCHANGE. Mrs. Larz Anderson is opening her beautiful estate, "Weld," and whether the Weatherman is or is not kind with his donations makes not the least bit of difference. For should the rains descend then it merely ensures that the mise en scene is an indoor instead of an outdoor one and all proceed as per plan, with tea and music to give a festive air. The gardens at "Weld" are rarely lovely. Just where the winding drive sweeps up majestically to its final curve there a walled garden replete of roses and iris with a tang of cedar and the tinkle of fountains to enhance its lichen grown mellowness. They say it is Mrs. Anderson's favored spot at Weld, dearest to her heart and more sentimentally regarded than any other beauties.

CLINKING SILVER AND CRACKLING greenbacks should shower down on a sale in so mellow a setting. Gardens so beautiful would soften even a Urali Heep heart and loosen purse strings always tight. A sale set out within the house would have the same beneficial effect on Soldiers' Shop returns. Mrs. Anderson's home is a treasure house. Particularly impressive is the room rich in magnificent Chinese Chippendale and heirlooms from the days when progenitors sailed the seven seas and marauder fortunes had their beginnings in the East India trade. A sale at Mrs. Anderson's is well done, thanks to her untiring thought and generosity. Tomorrow she has music and service tea, and has asked fellow workers at the Exchange to sit behind the urns and do the honors.

MRS. TIMOTHY ADAMOWSKA, MRS. L. TUCKER BURR, Mrs. Frederic M. Stone of Milton; Miss Edith Tucker, Mrs. Edward Mauran Esplanade, Mrs. Charles R. Butler, Mrs. Clarence Namson Edwards, Mrs. Carol Swan, members of the committee, all are asked to have luncheon with Mrs. Anderson at Weld before the sale. And to do their persuasive best at the sale to dispose of disabled men's wares—the pewter and silver, the rugs, the linens, the leather articles, the handmade costume jewels these patient workers have fashioned with so much skill and cunning. A tour of the Exchange in Boston at a revelation of the men's in the ever ready Exchange truck and trundled out to Weld for the sale.

THE EXCHANGE'S PROMOTER AND patron saint, Mrs. Clarence Edwards, is quite radiant these days. Her pet interest is sailing along in highly pleasing manner this summer. Sales have been enormously successful. Mrs. Merrill D. Graves of Pittsfield opened her home in that Berkshire metropolis and announced a sale that brought in financial returns in the hundreds of dollars. Mrs. Edwards was her guest at the time and there was a musical and a tea and the sale out of doors, all more or less in Mrs. Edwards' honor. Fondly, a tiny Connecticut hamlet, distinctly smart and very much on the social map, contributed heavily to Exchange coffers via the sale. Mrs. Frederic Brook attended it, Mrs. Thelma Brookholm and Mrs. Freeman Allen did a yeoman service in assisting, and it went on beneath the Ben Groverman's hospitable roof.

SOME ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORTER of the Exchange has enlisted Mrs. John Nicholas Brown's interest to the extent that the mistress of many millions and several homes comes actively into the field. She is opening her Providence establishment for the cause, just before the holidays and before she and her son, John Nicholas Brown, will abroad on one of their very frequent crossings. I believe the Providence invasions are next for the Exchange. But new or old, the resultant shower of ducats should be encouraging heavy. Mrs. Edwards is mightily pleased, of course, at all these indications that the Exchange is a lively enterprise. She has recently been dining with Mrs. Anderson up at Oronook, the house Mrs. Anderson calls the "Bandbox" and where she makes rendezvous with her pen.

EN PASSANT, TO MENTION POMFRET is to think of Charles Van Bunt Chushman immediately. His place, "Kastland," has great beauty and a splendid outlook across Connecticut hills to bring just fame. And again still greater fame as the home of a notable string of horses. Chushman colors flash down Belmont, Saratoga and Woodbine tracks and Chushman hunters have topped the timbers at every important show. The past time applies perfectly to the Chushman hunters, as recently interest in them waned a bit and thoroughbred waned important in the scheme and Mr. Chushman went in heavily for racing. Many blue ribbons passed from Chushman ownership, among them the famous "Flirt," whose high honors came easily. Now she belongs to Uncle Sam and will jump for Army honors with the Olympic team.

ALMOST A MIRACLE PERFORMED

Julia Libby's Girl

If this happened in your family you, too, would call it a miracle.

Mrs. Julia Libby, Goodyear Ave., Melrose (Mass.), writes: "Our loved one when my youngest daughter was 3 years old, she was suddenly afflicted with a twitching of the mouth."

Finally, I happened to notice Dr. True's Elixir advertised. I got her several doses which resulted in her being expelled of the twitches. In a remarkably short time her face returned to normal again and she has been in the best of health ever since. It is certainly a wonderful laxative and worm expeller. I am so glad that I can't praise it too highly."

Fellow Workers of Hostess to Serve Tea to Prospective Purchasers

DEBUTANTE PARTIES THIS SEASON PROGRESS FAR FROM the accepted tea, cakes and dancing stage as mothers, inspired to do well by their daughters, invest the innumerable afternoon festivity with sports accompaniments. Today at the Longwood Cricket Club the luncheon for Miss Constance Creighton moves along regularly, through its accepted course, for a hundred or so guests.

Mrs. Albert Creighton and Miss - Peggy Creighton are hostesses for the luncheon and later in the winter there is a large ball at the Somerset to finish off the season with a flourish.

MRS. PHINEAS W. SPRAGUE came up from Maine a few days ago to take to the Lawrence-Gardner wedding and get the wheels working for Miss Sally Sprague's first winter. The Spragues make no less a season as possible at their lovely place at Proulx Neck. Miss Sprague spent school days at Foxcroft, so it follows that she is an excellent horsewoman. And it also is down on the cards that she will follow the Norfolk hounds many a mile this autumn. The family penchant for hunters of blue ribbon quality and perfection is well expressed by the younger daughter.

Months ago we thought of this idea—we watched advance Paris reports showing the newest for Fall wear—but—knowing that styles do not become "fashion" until accepted—we waited and planned accordingly—that's the story of how this sensational dress event was started.

Our dress experts, with a knowledge of what was smart and new for Fall wear, went into the New York market—hundreds of manufacturers were visited, thousands of dresses were looked at, but only those that measured up to the high standards of style and quality set for this event were accepted, with the result that now—

CITY COUNCIL ATTENDS RITES FOR MRS. MAHON

The entire Boston City Council today attended the funeral of Mrs. Martha Lee, widow of the late Thomas Mahon, held from the home at 37 Elmwood, at Dorchester, with mass in St. Ann's Church, Neponset, and interment in Mount Benedict Cemetery, West Roxbury. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by St. Ann's pastor, the Rev. John Hennessy, the Rev. Peter Conlon, deacon, and the Rev. Patrick Scanlon, sub-deacon. Five eulogies and a sobriety were pallbearers.

Cooking School Hours

On Wednesday, October 3rd, the doors of the Hotel Statler ball room, where the annual Martha Lee Cooking School is to be held, will not be opened until 3 p. m. The lessons will start at promptly 3:30 p. m. At all other sessions of the school the doors will open at 1 p. m., with the class starting at 2 p. m. Friday evening the doors will be opened at 7, for the class starting at 7:30.

Four Fine Presents

WE ARE indebted to the Aluminum Cooking Utensil Company for four beautiful gifts of Wear-Ever equipment which will be presented to fortunate guests at the Martha Lee Cooking School in the Hotel Statler.

One of these is a Wear-Ever double roaster which also serves as a canner. This canner has a rack with handles which makes it easy to remove the fruit jars from the canner. It can be used on top of the stove over one burner or in the oven.

It is light in weight and convenient to handle and the all Wear-Ever aluminum utensils, it is built for a life time of service. Wear-Ever aluminum utensils have no need to try one's patience and ruin one's manicure. They cannot rust and do not contain and cannot form any poisonous compounds with fruit or vegetable acids. They are as sure as glass or china, but cannot crack or chip. Food cooked in Wear-Ever requires less stirring and there need be less fear of burning. Even milk burned by accident on the bottom of a Wear-Ever aluminum pan will not taste scorched.

But burning in Wear-Ever is a rare catastrophe, for heat does not collect in the bottom of these utensils but spreads rapidly and evenly over the entire surface.

As with everything else, there's a best in aluminum. You are sure of getting 100 cents in value for every dollar spent for Wear-Ever. Don't be tempted to buy aluminum simply because it is cheap, and on the other hand, don't feel that it is necessary to sink a fortune in aluminum of substandard price.

We will be only too happy to show you our complete Wear-Ever equipment in the Martha Lee School hall at the Hotel Statler and in the Martha Lee Kitchen at 3 Windthrop st.

A Penny Saver

Some day when you want to make $1 do the work of two, try this appetizing recipe: Macaroni Mousse—1 c. uncooked elbow macaroni, 1/4 c. melting milk, 1 c. soft bread crumbs, 1/4 c. butter, 1 sweet red pepper or pimiento, chopped, 1 tbsp. chopped parsley, 1 tsp. chopped onion, 1 tsp. salt, 1 c. grated strong American cheese, 1 egg.

Cook the macaroni in 3 quarts of boiling water, to which 1 teaspoon of salt has been added, until it becomes tender. Then drain. Pour macaroni into a buttered baking dish, add melted butter, red pepper, parsley, onion, salt, grated cheese and beaten egg yolk. Add to the macaroni cut into small pieces, and fold in the whites of the macaroni cut into small pieces. Put into a buttered baking dish, set in a pan of water and bake for 40 minutes in a moderate oven. It is well to cover the dish with brown paper for the first half of the baking in order to prevent "browning" too rapidly. Serve with a mushroom sauce and garnish with pimiento and parsley.

N. Y. Marriages Decrease

BALLROOM SUPERB FOR SCHOOL

The beautiful ball room of the Hotel Statler, home of the Annual Martha Lee Cooking School, is sure to be filled to capacity at each of the five sessions. Early comers will secure front places, but it is possible to see and hear perfectly in each of the 1,500 seats.

Interesting Special Gifts

AMONG the major presents that will be awarded at the annual Martha Lee cooking school will be a pair of Walsh's Arch-Preformer Shoes, the reason that 4000 Bostonians each year buy Walsh's Arch-Preformer Shoes is not only because no other shoes can do what this scientific shoe does, but because Mr. Walsh's shoes include 4 lengths and 13 widths and 18 in length. One of the unique features of Walsh's Arch-Preformer shoes is the patented protruberant just back of the forward arch, found only in these shoes. This protruberant arch relieves the important arch back to health.

Penn "Says It With Flowers" "Best wishes for a successful Cooking School" is beautifully expressed by Penn the Florist through the beautiful blossoms sent to Martha Lee. Typical of the exquisite taste which characterizes all the flower arrangements of Penn's Florist and Henry Penn, these lovely flowers add the final touch of beauty that means as much in every woman's home. (It'd like to take this opportunity to whisper to October brides that Penn's bride bouquets are lovely beyond description.)

TETLEY TEA In individual tea-bags, too

A tasting test—and the surprise it gave Mrs. Atherton

MRS. R. E. ATHERTON had been cooking for years but until she saw our suggestion to test Crisco by actually tasting it right from the can, such a test for shortening had never occurred to her.

She was so surprised and delighted with Crisco's taste that she sat down and wrote us all about it.

Beef Fritters

Mix of cold leftover beef, unless for anything else, make a delicious meal for four people.

- 1 cup chopped cold beef
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 egg
- 1 cup flour
- 1 egg beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Beat egg, add milk, flour and baking powder sifted together. Beat smooth. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Drop by spoonful into Crisco heated to 350° F. or when bread crumbs brown in 60 seconds. Fry until brown and thoroughly cooked. Drain on brown paper. Serve with any leftover gravy or the following sauce:

- 2 tablespoons Crisco
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup hot water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Melt Crisco. Add onion; cook slowly until it begins to brown. Add the flour. Mix well, then add the parsley. Then the cube dissolved in the water. Stir over fire until thick, then add the Worcestershire and lemon juice.

Balloons

- 1 cup water
- 1 tablespoon Crisco
- 3 eggs unbeaten
- 1 cup pastry flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Put water and Crisco in saucepan bring to boiling point. Remove from fire. Add flour and salt. Return to fire, beat until it forms a paste which leaves side of pan. Remove from fire. Add the eggs one at a time, beating each in thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls in moderate hot Crisco 350-360° F. or when a small piece of bread brown in 60 seconds fry until puffed and well browned. Turn with a wire skimmer on oil paper until cool. Make a slit in one side with sharp knife; put in teaspoon of sweetened whipped cream or jam. Dust with powdered sugar. Serve same day.

See if the test suggested below doesn't give you, too, the surprise of your whole cooking experience:

Put a little Crisco on the tip of a spoon. On the tip of another, a little of any other shortening. Taste first Crisco, then the other fat.

Had you imagined there could be such a difference in the taste of cooking fats? Is it any wonder that such a sweet, fresh shortening brings out to best advantage the delicate flavor of foods you prepare with it?

When you try one of the recipes given here, notice that Crisco does not smoke at proper frying temperature or fill your home with cooking odors.

Crisco's sweet flavor will delight you!

CRISCO is used by Mrs. Lilla Pauline Cross in the American Cooking School being conducted this week in the Statler Hotel Ballroom

CRISCO is the registered trademark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Company

Year's Supply of Labor Saver

THROUGHOUT the country of Labor T. Brothers of Cambridge two months ago gave a year's supply of Lux and a year's supply of Lux will be presented from the slings of the Statler ballroom, at the annual Martha Lee cooking school.

I do not believe that there are many women in New England who do not depend on Lux to preserve the pristine beauty of their most precious possessions—delicious, luscious, cheer stockings, frocks, lace—in fact more and more women are trusting practically their entire family washing, on it, not then, they are probably depending on Lux, the popular granulated soap product which, carefully used according to directions, makes better, brighter, sweeter smelling wash with half the usual effort.

A Useful Present

"WHAT shall I give my daughter for a wedding present that will be more than ornamental, yet not a valued heirloom to work for the night to come?"

Three guesses as to my answer? Yes, of course, A shiny white porcelain electric refrigerator.

Imagine the pride and pleasure a bride would take in displaying this shining emblem of the modern house to admiring—and a little envious—visitors, in letting them "see the wheels go round."

And imagine the compliments she will receive for the delicious dishes served straight from the frigid zone. In buying an electric refrigerator you are really buying food safety for years and years to come.

There is no moisture and dampness in the electric box. The air is dry and actually frosty, having the drying effect of a frosty night. Not only do foods keep better in this air, but they actually improve.

Meats acquire new tenderness and flavor, and salad greens crisp up until they almost fall apart when you eat them.

The electric refrigerator is among the outstanding of the newer developments that have revolutionized housekeeping methods. In talking on this subject with the local distributor of General Electric Refrigerators—the kind you will find in the annual Martha Lee Cooking School, in the Hotel Statler—has said:

"The electric power which provides a hot pad for grandmothers' rheumatism should produce ice cubes for convincing grandmothers' ice pack. The electric refrigerator simply had to be. It is the ultimate in food preservation because it automatically maintains a steady temperature below the freezing point."

"Butter will be sweet. And then there is an endless variety of cold, appetizing desserts that can be added to the daily menu."

Among the valuable presents to be distributed at the Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler will be a $100 credit check towards the purchase of a General Electric Refrigerator, and $25 in money to use any way you wish. Mrs. Cross will tell you all about these presents from the platform.

At Big School

Mrs. Lilla Pauline Cross, well known lecturer and household economist, will assist Martha Lee in conducting her annual cooking school.

NEW CEREAL MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

"I've been busy this month some thing new dawned on the food horizon, and I try to be among the first to find it out and pass the word along to my friends."

This time it's a brand new cereal, and when I, who am by nature no special lover of cereals, tell you that I've rather have a dish of these thirty flakes than the tastiest chop, you can believe that they are good, useful in all capitals. I'm not forgetting that quite important item—their name. It's Kellogg's Rice Crispies—and if you think they are like any rice you have ever seen on land or sea, you are vastly mistaken. They are tiny, light balloons of goodness, a cross between rice and popcorn in flavor, with all the softness of the rice and the lightness of the corn. With top milk and sugar, they make an ideal breakfast cereal, and nothing would be so delicious for luncheon floated in a bowl of milk or atop soup, ice cream or in custard. We are going to get very well acquainted with this new member of the cereal family, and will have more, to tell you of it later.

MISS MELLON TO ADDRESS MASTERS

Prince Is Feted

Health From Whole Wheat

HEALTH and strength, we know, come from eating the right kind of foods and taking the right kind of exercise, but some of us, perhaps, are not always sure just what constitutes "the right kind of foods."

Of one thing you can be sure, and that is when you are eating whole wheat—in Shredded Wheat form—you are on the right road. Shredded Wheat is unique among cereal foods, not only because of its shredded character, but because of the fact that it is made in loaf form. The little loaves are especially adaptable to all sorts of combinations with fruit or preserved fruits, or creamed nutmeats or vegetables.

Try it, then. The Shredded Wheat wafer is truly delicious with butter, cheese or nutmeats. Containing a large amount of nourishment in small bulk, they're the ideal food of hunters and other sportsmen, and are served on nearly every ship that sails the seas. Ideal, too, for our every day home.

As the expert concludes her demonstration, out of the oven comes the luscious, appetizing result of her skill. But before the dish went into the oven, she made sure that the mixture contained only the highest quality ingredients.

Whether you cook for an audience or a family, the quality of your ingredients is assured when you use goods that come packed in glass containers.

Only the highest quality foods can pass the rigid inspection to which glass packed goods are submitted. Flaky fish, tender meats, the first grade and choicest cuts, are tasty and appetizing when served from glass jars with convenient seals. The finest produce of farm field and orchard, picked in its prime, comes to you full-flavored in its fresh natural color.

You will notice that glass packed goods play an important part in the cooking school expert's demonstration. She uses foods that come in glass containers, with handy seals, for quality, convenience and economy.

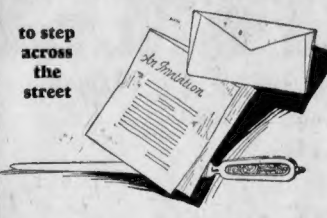

When you try in your kitchen the recipes you learned at the cooking school, use glass packed foods, as the expert does, to insure the utmost success, the true flavor, textures and aroma that make good food taste better.

You may find some glass-packed food products are little more expensive, but remember they are selected quality and full measure.

HOOPER WILL LEAD AL IN KENTUCKY FINALS, ANALYST PREDICTS

THIS IS THE CHIEF ISSUE

By CHARLES N. WHEELER

(Noted Political Analyst)

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Put Kentucky down in the Hoover column. While the battle has been rather close up to this hour, the breaks are discernible all along the line. The Smith Tammany troops are becoming disorganized all over the State, while the Hoover forces are just beginning to fight.

This is not only plainly indicated in the Hearst nationwide poll but is supported by trustworthy observers in close touch with the actualities in the Blue Grass State. Hoover has taken a big jump in the percentage tables in the last five days, and at this hour sits at least of 53-60 per cent of the total poll.

The furrow are, Hoover, men, Smith, women, 2118, 4863, Smith, men, 2169, women, 2003, total 4177.

It may be significant that Hoover's forward stride in the state has been more noticeable since Governor Hughes has swung around the circle in the west and corn belt.

What is particularly observed in Kentucky at the moment is that the campaign there is being carried on with two issues standing out ahead of all others. They are prosperity and Tammany.

While general business conditions throughout the country are being emphasized at this stage, the Tammany issue is coming to the front now with the promise that both the candidate and the independent press.

TAMMANY BIG ISSUE
So far as this State and Southern Indiana go, it is now seen that Governor Smith made a blunder in the Montana speech in attacking Hoover as a member of the Harding cabinet at the time of the oil scandal, according to confidential reports from field workers.

In the speech at Helena, Governor Smith threw out the strong suggestion that Hoover should be held in measure to blame for the oil scandal, judging that candidates should be judged by both their present and past conduct.

The challenge has been taken up in both Kentucky and Indiana with the result that Governor Smith and his Tammany connections are making the first page in many of the newspapers.

The severest contract and other scandals that are now rocking Greater New York are not overlooked in the broadside aimed at Smith's entourage.

The public prints are pointing out that while Hoover happened to be in the Harding cabinet, it is stretching the imagination greatly to infer that he must have had an inkling of what Secretary Fall was up to, as Governor Smith inferred. Nobody of any consequence in the Blue Grass State, it is reported from the front line trenches, accepts this inference.

CHALLENGE TAKEN
But at the same time the spell-mongers are pointing out that Governor Smith is a product of Tammany, was reared in it and is trained of the society and its history. Then the conclusion is drawn that if the doctrine of "birds of a feather flock together" is to be taken into account, Governor Smith must stand before voters as the exhibit of Tammany.

And as between a Tammany coöperative and Hoover's record, they are said to live can be little hesitancy in making a choice.

This same reaction is reported throughout the southern half of Indiana and particularly in the territory where the Louisville Post has been a wide circulation.

Incidentally Hoover is steadily gaining in the Hearst poll in the Hoover State.

The totals today are: Hoover, 18,636; Smith, 14,102.

A HIT

One of Willard Mack's greatest successes, "The Dove," is presented in a new production by the Boston Stock Company, at the Boston Theatre. The play, which appeared in Boston two years ago, centers around a man who is a "diamond" chabellero in all Mexico. But his girl friend is a little Mexican girl and her "Americano" lover throughout the play, leads the audience to believe that she is a girl from Mexico. However, even an audience may be wrong, as is shown in the last act when the American hero, standing side back to the wall, with a critical look on his face, suddenly learns with relieved surprise just what is "the hot bed" chabellero. The play is a comedy, and the brilliant play by John Warner who gives it one of his best characterizations. The cast for Mack's production includes the title role of "The Dove" and the part of the American hero, by John J. Powell, the

Boston Evening American's All-Star Lineup For World Series

IN KEEPING with its policy to give its readers the best and most complete account of all important happenings, the Boston Evening American has engaged a galaxy of star writers second to none to cover the World Series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals, which starts Thursday.

No need of going to great expense to attend the classic. For the insignificant sum of 2 cents a day you can see every contest through the eyes of the greatest experts in the country.

NICK FLATLEY, Boston Evening American sports editor and a nationally-known baseball critic, will write the lead story. Nothing that happens on the field of play will escape Flatley's eyes, and he will tell you all about it in his inimitable way.

Damon Runyon, famed descriptive writer, will give you his impressions, always interesting. Rabbit Maranville, Cardinal shortstop, and Benny Bengough, Yankee catcher, will give their and their teammates' version of victory or defeat.

"BUGS" BAER will relate the humorous sidelights of the affair as only he can.

Rogers Hornsby and Lou Gehrig, who have been supplying our readers with inside dope since the start of the season, will continue to do so throughout the classic.

And the sidelights, most interesting to the dyed-in-wool fan, will be supplied by Les Conklin, Ford Frick and Bill Corum.

YOU can't afford to miss the stories of these writers. Make sure you don't. Order copies of the Boston Evening American at once.

YANKEES' CRIPPLES RECOVER FOR SERIES

BIG GREEN LINE MUST GO WELL

By BILL GRIMES

Dartmouth backfields have received the lion's share of the credit for the success of the Green for many years. With such backs as Andy Oberlander, Eddie Dooley, Al Marsters, Myles Lane, Dick Black, Roy Kelley and Bob McPhail, it is not to be wondered at that Dartmouth's backfields featured.

However, the Hawley offense and the work of the Green guards and ends were as much entitled to honor as the ball carriers. Dartmouth has had one of the greatest offenses in football since Hawley took over the reins. The Dartmouth running attack and overhead game has been the talk of the football world for four years.

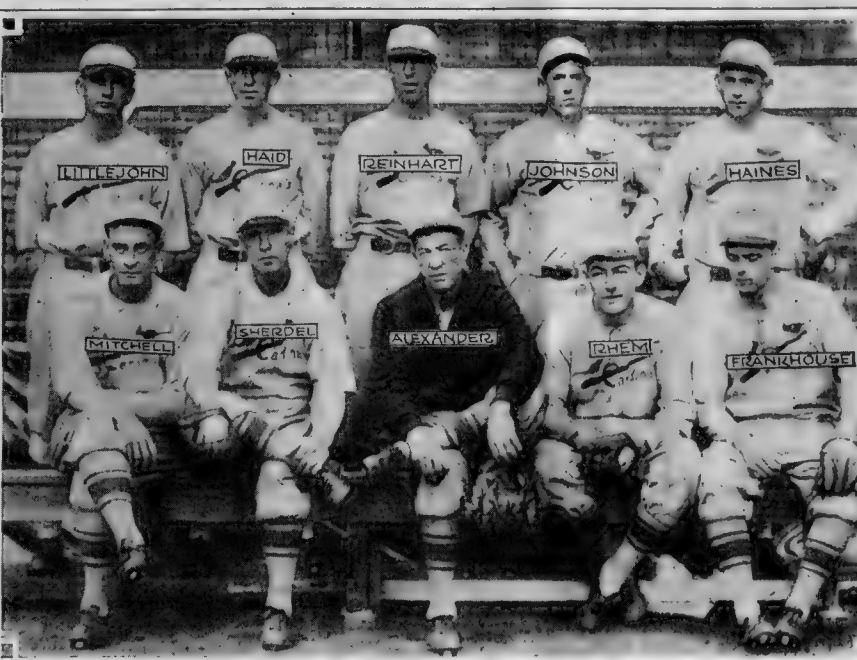

Dartmouth had the backs to make the Hawley offense function but without the aid of the guards and ends, they would not have received the recognition they did.

Compared with the backfield material, Dartmouth's line have been weak, at least defensively. This was in a large measure due to the lack of replacements. The first string linemen have been on a par with the best in the college ranks but they were unable to go through without substitution and every replacement materially weakened the line.

Unless Coach Hawley can develop second and third string backfield combinations, the Indians of the north are going to be woefully shy at ball carriers. The Green has a wonderful set of backs in Capt. Jack Black, Al Marsters and Roy Kelley. But if any one of the three runs foul of an injury, the machine is going to be badly wrecked.

Black received his first real baptism of bruising football since his knee operation against Norwich and came through without a sign of trouble.

CARDS WHO WILL BE STACKED AGAINST THE YANKEES

TEN REASONS WHY ST. LOUIS IS PICKED TO WIN Over New York in the World Series which starts Thursday: These are the Cardinals who pitched the club to the National League pennant and are expected to pitch it to a world's title. Alexander, Haines, Sherdel, Mitchell and Rhem are the outstanding members of the group, but the other five are mighty valuable relief men.

COMBS, GEHRIG, LAZZER TO START AGAINST CARDS

By NICK FLATLEY

NO doddering collection of cripples will march onto the Yankee Stadium award to represent the American League in the 1928 World Series that starts two days hence. The New York Yankees, who face the Cards, will be the same tough old ball club, a great team any time the big punch comes along.

The boys have made the National League favorites for this cash clash at prices ranging from 7 to 5 down to 11 to 10. And mostly because the word had been passed along that half the Huggins athletes were on crutches, or being nursed along in various hospitals.

Which backs the odds of a repeat? Well, perhaps, to most eyes, the Yankees have the edge. They led most of the year, but they were always two or three runs ahead of their rivals. The fact that they came through in a wild finish to sufficient tribute to their managers.

Most of the smart baseball men who pick the National League entry do so because they figure that the Cards' pitching staff is better than the New York array. At Larcher, Haines and Sherdel all went all out from the start of the year. Not one of them ever slumped or sagged. They were a real big team, in a tough scramble, aided at no time by Clarence Mitchell, helped at the finish by Eversett Dwyer.

All three have come down to this series in four condition. The Yankees, on the other hand, have had a lot of trouble. The Yankees have had more than a week's rest, but they have had a lot of trouble. The Yankees have had more than a week's rest, but they have had a lot of trouble.

It is a tough series, but the Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge.

Cards Have Pitching Margin—Hornsby

By ROGERS HORNSBY
First Boston Herald

TWO factors play the great part in any World Series—pitching and hitting. The fielding of any two big league champions over a stretch of four to seven games, will be about the same.

The pitching and the hitting are different, though. A team may get a wild swinging streak, and go crazy for a few days. Likewise a couple of pitchers may get going a bit above normal speed, and work wonders.

St. Louis has a habit of taking the spotlight in the series game. You remember Moore and Phipps last year. Perhaps young Henry Johnson may step up to the Huggins rescue in this class. That youngster has been pitching a lot of good ball lately.

It seems to me that the Cardinals have the better pitching strength going into this one. They have Alexander, Sherdel and Haines for regulars, with Riveter Johnson, a right smart relief prospect. By-venter's last two full games were as good as anybody turned in all year.

HUGGENS, will have to depend on Phipps, Wally Hoyt, and Henry Johnson. Now the three are good pitchers, but they have been worked to death almost in the last month. That was why the Yankees were beaten by big scores so often toward the finish.

As far as I can remember, Phipps will not show. He has been trying out his arm a little, but the soreness remains in his shoulder. He may bluff a bit, but he isn't ready now, or he would have hopped into a picture at the finish to get his muscles back in trim.

Hoyt, Phipps and Johnson are strong pitchers, all of them, and a week's rest is likely to bring them back in great condition. But, I so, I think McKechnie has more strength.

Haines, a fine pitcher, has had one of his best years. He beat the Yankees two years ago, and naturally is sure he will repeat.

Sherdel has been the best National League outliner all season, and the Yankees will have a very hard time with his assortment of stuff. He pitches with his head as well as his arm, and in what I would call an ideal series type of control, just by the Great Wall of China.

They will still have the eleven or so men who will be of valuable service. They will be of valuable service. They will be of valuable service.

TUFTS ELEVE SCRIMMAGES TODAY

This afternoon's workout at Tufts will take the form of a scrimmage as will tomorrow's. These will probably be the last hard sessions of the week and will be light ones for the Cully game.

When I look for hitting to be on a short series.

It is a hard series, but the Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge.

'It All Depends on Pitching'—Gehrig

By LOU GEHRIG
First Boston Herald

GUESS pitching has been the deciding factor in more World Series than any other single department of baseball.

And pitching is apt to play an important role this year—though I look for hitting to be even more important.

When it comes to comparing the pitching strength of the contending clubs, one is up against a tough proposition. The pitching statistics that govern a season's play don't go into a short series.

In a season a pitcher has 15 or 20 chances, and you can strike an average of effectiveness. The best pitcher in the world might get off on the wrong foot in a World Series game and get beaten.

When it comes to pitching any one given game, I have pitilessly seen Phipps and Hoyt of the Yankees, Haines of the Cardinals, and Alexander and Sherdel of the Cardinals beat the best good ball in baseball.

The Cardinals' "Big" Alexander, Haines and Sherdel—three fellows who have experience and know what to do in a World Series game. So far as the Yankees are concerned, I believe we will have a very hard time with their pitching.

It is a hard series, but the Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge. The Yankees have the edge.

Howreen to Use Shock Backfield at Harvard

GILGAN TO PLOO 210 FOUR

Newton Boy, of First String Quality, Essential for Success of Sub Backfield

By TED LYNCH
When Harvard starts its 532 football season at the Stadium on Saturday, Crimson football fans are bound to witness a new wrinkle in Harvard football. For Harvard has developed a shock backfield.

Harvard has abandoned the old plan of individual replacements in its carrying department in favor of a new plan. Under the new plan, an entire new backfield, which has been playing together all season, in practice and in games.

The backfield of Primus, Gurnea, French and Harper will be replaced by the youthful quartet of Gilgan, Mason, Moore and Battenberg.

For many days the question of Gilgan's absence from that Harvard first team has puzzled.

The first of shock relief in its new backfield question (Gilgan) is at least about the line of play. As a rule, French and all players take the role in the second backfield.

There could be of no value to keep three out of the same line and effectiveness in the same backfield and a strike in the defense play of Harper or the possible of Gilgan.

Then again there is the factor of the need of Gilgan in the second quarter. Without the Newton and on that same quarter, Gilgan would be useless.

There must be a passer, end runner, straight and a runner. Gilgan is the only player who can play in all four positions.

For Gilgan it is a sorry move. Gilgan's running mate, Battenberg, has played little football, while Moore and Mason are from the real variety grade. But Harvard feels that Gilgan can put the quartet across effectively, at least, in the first half of the game.

Anzac Boxer Flashes in Win Over Monte

By JACK CONWAY

Like the youngster of the fairy tales, when these colored boxers are good they are very, very good, and when they are bad they are very, very bad.

In the case of Tiger Payne of Australia he happens to be very, very good. This explains the defeat of Joe Monte of Brockton in aizzling 10-round bout at an Arena club show.

Payne, like the late Tiger Flowers, is a miter boxer. In addition he has a punch and a negative. Going into the fifth round it looked as though Monte was going to win. His driving attack with left hands to the head and body had enabled him to pile up a big lead.

Leo Flynn then cut the Tiger loose from his invisible leash. And how he stepped along.

Beginning with the fifth frame, Payne took command of that elusive. In the seventh round, Monte rolled and fought out in a only to fall back in the next round. He started to get up but he had the Tiger and he had the Tiger.

It was a good fight to watch and met with the approval of the crowd.

It looked like the dark of 10 years ago when Jack P. Ryan and Leo Flynn took command of that elusive. In the seventh round, Monte rolled and fought out in a only to fall back in the next round. He started to get up but he had the Tiger and he had the Tiger.

MR. BOSTON Bu Jack Conway

"THE more money will go down on the Cards to win in the coming World Series," said Mr. Boston today. "The boys who know their baseball know that the Cards are in better condition than the Yanks for a hard season and that they will come through with a victory like they did two years ago."

"The Yanks got off to a flying start in the American League race this year. Otherwise they never would have been able to have held the lead. It was a case of the Yanks getting a head start and then the Cards catching up."

HINGHAM TEAM COMING ALONG RAPIDLY

Under the direction of Frank Foster, former champion college star, the Hingham high school football team is making rapid progress. This will be Foster's fourth year as a football coach at the Hingham high school, and the young man is hoping that this season will be as successful as his first, in which he coached the team to a championship.

Poor Decision Robs Moore of Victory

Franklin Moore got the worst of a decision in his bout with Joe Zermeno of Lynn in the feature bout of the Concord A. C. Power house on Saturday night. Moore was a close fight but lost by a decision of the referee.

Big Wardrobe for 'Venus' Film

By LOVELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1923, by Universal Pictures

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—I have always felt that Mrs. Margaret Talmadge, the mother of Norma and Constance, deserved to be a columnist. She would have a formidable rival. Her wit, her observation and her mastery of extensive letter and her world's press history writer. A chatty note received yesterday says that she and Constance have been spending a week in Paris buying clothes for "Venus," the name of Constance's picture to be produced in Nick.

Says Eve, "Paul Point is making 20 gowns for Constance and if they are anything like the illustrations she will resemble a Russian wedding cake in 18 years." "Venus" is by one of France's foremost writers and the literary editor of the largest publishing house in Paris. The book will be published in November.

Constance has three leading men, according to Mrs. Talmadge and the best looking of the three is Alfred, who is on the French film scene," says Eve, "and in the history he is supposed to be a member of the French Legion, so the whole company is moving to a place called Uten in Africa.

Mrs. Talmadge was undecided whether she will go to Africa with the company or not, but she did say that she expected Norma would join them in Europe. I am not so sure whether the ship is faster to the thought or not, for Eve has to be separated from her children.

The author of "The Patriot," Universal's prize novel, to "Universal" will have a hard time living up to "The Patriot," which most people think one of the best pictures ever made. "The Devil," a story of the time of Louis XI, features the character of Oliver Necker, a half French and half German barber and a close confidante of Louis.

The film seems to have settled on Natalie Moorhead and the artist who had on the screen, for something tells me it is to be a big picture.

Last June her press agent told me I saw her play in Chicago as she was coming West to make a picture for the company. I saw her in Chicago, when she was found playing in the stage play, "The Baby Cyclone," was just about all she could manage.

There came an offer from Jack O'Hara to play in "The Love World," which was accepted. Her tests were good and she was ready to start work when she was asked to begin rehearsals for a fluffy play immediately. Elvira Tashman, who was somewhat on the same order as Miss Moorhead and who wears her hair in the same style, has been put into the role vacated by Miss Moorhead.

Just looking at Lois Moran casting. If you wouldn't visualize her as a perfect type for a South Sea Island picture, yet she did a native in "Sharp Shooters" with George O'Brien, that so pleased Winfield Sheehan that he is now casting his eye about for another South Sea Island picture.

At the moment Jean Ford is reading "Haley," a sea story by Arthur Conan Doyle, which is being made into a film. "Haley" is a story of a shipwrecked sailor who is picked up by a native woman and who is taken to her home.

Dr. Belden Discusses Tuberculosis

By DR. BRICK BELDEN

YOU may not be worried about yourself or some member of your family, especially one of your children, when conditions would really warrant concern on your part. There is nothing more dangerous than a false sense of security which it might be a state of chronic alarm over trivial things. I am prompted to make these observations in view of the false bronchitis and tuberculosis by a majority of those who become its victims. It is not easy to know when to suspect tuberculosis, so that, without undue nervousness, you may feel that a very early stage of the disease is being taken and take the necessary precautions.

The normal condition of the human body is one of health. Any deviation from this condition, no matter how slight, should be investigated. When you get colds, coughs, and other minor ailments, the chief reason why you are sick is that you have not played the game squarely and have broken some of the natural laws. If people would only realize this, this great fundamental fact, there would be less sickness and, especially, less tuberculosis.

The greatest part of medical treatment is the giving of drugs and the writing of prescriptions. In spite of this fact, people continue to expect this from their doctor as his principal service. They even sometimes request any attempt to teach them the ways of right living, especially when he improves them for having broken the fundamental laws.

An important agency in teaching about tuberculosis is the tuberculosis association. Another is the patient who has been discharged from a sanatorium or sanatorium, bringing with him his newly-acquired love of life and how to carry on at home the rules of health and hygiene that have been taught him in the institution.

On Ultra-Modern Wrist Watch

By MARIE JERITA

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day

By that question I mean, do you breathe so easily and effectively that the remote basement cells of your lungs are never reached and ventilated? Possibly, if breathing were not automatic you would not bother to breathe at all.

Shallow breathers are always asthmatic, nervous and with life. Sometimes they wonder why they are not gifted with the bubbling enthusiasm and lively spirit that make other women "the life of the party."

Deep breathing is a secret of loveliness, vivacity and poise. I do not guarantee that habitual deep breathing will change your type or endow you with the mysterious and elusive "it." But I do assure you that if you persist day after day, month after month, in deep breathing of pure fresh air you will become ever so much healthier, prettier and more attractive. Your eyes should gain sparkle, your hair luster, your skin a healthy glow.

The first thing on awaking each morning wash your face in cold water and slip into your warm bedclothes and slippers and taking five long breaths before your open window. During sleep the heart slows down low, so it is only natural that you should look a bit pale when you wake up. But the simple breathing exercise I am about to describe will send healthy red blood pumping through your body, feeding tissue and coloring your lips and cheeks.

Stand straight and draw in the muscles of your abdomen, keeping your spine and neck straight. Lift your arms from your sides to parallel position above your head. As you do so fill your lungs to capacity with fresh air. Let them press against your ribs and chest and force your diaphragm and abdomen forward. Now exhale through your lips with a whistling sound while you bring your arms slowly, palms down, to your sides.

Deep breathing serves as an introduction to five minutes of setting-up exercises, such as I often describe in this column. Then conclude with five more deep breaths and a quick shower and rubdown. Practice deep breathing, if you can, before a full-length mirror, to make sure that you "stand tall" throughout the exercise, though without tiring.

After your bath, quick, though attention to your hair, your teeth, nails, dress and all the details of dressing should send you to bed at half past eight and let you wake up at half past eight, looking and feeling your very best.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for it

BABY has little ailments at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done. Baby is soothed; relief is a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug. Castoria is a vegetable product. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has a single pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the cruder pains of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea which must be checked without delay. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

TAKE-OUT OF SUIT BID.

NORTH, holding singleton in the hand, takes him out with a bid of one No Trump. But South, with solid strength and sufficient length in the Spade suit not to require normal expectancy in his partner's hand, rebids Spades, having in mind also the honor count. North, having fulfilled his obligation to deny normal expectancy, rests content with his partner's two Spade bid.

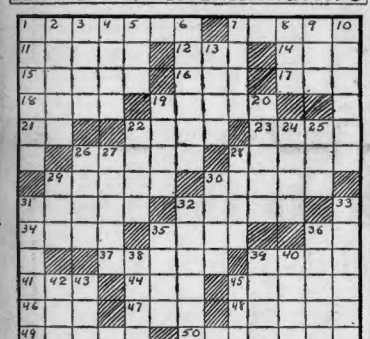

In the play of the hand, Declarer could have taken the first trick with the 8 of Diamonds. But having in mind the establishment of Dummy's Clubs, Declarer realized that he must have two re-entries in Dummy to bring the Club suit in after establishment, assuming the normal 4-2 split of the outstanding 4 cards of the suit. Therefore he plays the Ace of Diamonds, thus establishing the King and Jack of Diamonds in Dummy as needed re-entries, assuming naturally that West holds the Queen.

The Club suit splitting normally, a Grand Slam was made on the hand. The subject of tomorrow's article will be "Opening Partner's Suit Against a No Trump Bid." Today's question to be answered by tomorrow's article is: "Holding three cards of partner's suit and opening that suit against a No Trump contract, which card should be led?"

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing addressed stamped return. Copyright, 1928, American Bridge Magazine, Inc. Distributed by Bell Syndicate, Inc.

CHILD'S CONFIDENCE

By CONSTANCE CAMERON.

"Oh goodness" says girl writing about children who are "little" exclaimed a friend the other day. "And help me figure out what to do with Dorothy." Dorothy, aged 15, is giving her mother intense confidence because she has decided to respect her authority and has stopped confiding in her to tell her little important secrets to girls of her own age.

It probably troubles every mother when this inevitably happens and the cause of her trouble is the doubt as to whether she has done all she could to merit the growing girl's confidence.

It is only a perfectly natural tendency which leads a child of this age to believe that the opinion of companions of his age are true and better than those of his mother or other adults. Leaders from the young group take the place of adult leaders. Here worship thrives, a girl, acting in a yellow, gaudy high school youth all the attributes she admires in a Gaiety or a Lord Byron.

These "crutches" are transitory as a rule and are no cause for worry and when they are gone, the child proves of the young man your daughter dreams about constantly, although the freedom of your home and the glow of your hospitality. Against the background of her home stimulants and culture your daughter can get a quicker and more accurate judgment of him than by seeing him away, where perhaps the fault you object to and fear are ab-merged.

Don't try to force confidences, but meet them in a friendly spirit when they are offered. Include the teenage child in family conference.
Make him feel that his province ideas are of worth to the family circle, as well as of importance to his younger group. And don't center too much visible attention upon him. He will be awkward, perhaps shy, or perhaps self-consciously boastful. But see much and overlook much at this period. Take it granted that he has in the making, an adult of integrity and honor in your family who is but going through the same changes of body and mind that you once went through. And you weren't such an angel always, were you?

Adjust this to your child once in a while if you would be friends during the storm of trying to

A Wife's Meditations

By HELEN ROWLAND
FUNNY how a woman will elect a man to a life term as husband without knowing all he has about him, or how she will elect a Presidential candidate as before she will put her X beside his name on the ballot.

By the time the average woman is ready to give her vote to a candidate she has looked him up and knows all about his boyhood and early environment, whether he has been brought up on pancakes and "sacred taboos," or on marmalade and pailloogy; whether he wears a soft hat or a derby, and whether he has a small-town outlook or a metropolitan sophistication.

Yet she will cheerfully MARRY a man without knowing whether he regards chicken dinner on Sunday as a moral principle and a source of night duty as a sacred rite, or whether a morning shower and a dose of bromide constitute his whole religion.

Before she votes for a White House candidate she knows all about his "past," and not even a little corner of his life is dark to her. She has studied his mother's picture and seen all his baby photographs in the newspapers, and knows more about his holidays, temperament and weaknesses than he knows himself.

She knows whether he has a weakness for early rising and fresh trout or for late suppers and cigar smoke; whether or not he tastes cream on his cereal, what brand of tobacco he favors and whether he is early or late for his appointment.

But when she elects a husband for a full term she doesn't even know how many blondes there have been in his life; whether he is HOME broken or an all-night prowler, or whether he is going to get up at 5 a. m. to close the shutters, or to keep her awake until 1 a. m. while he practices on a saxophone. She knows nothing of his past or present, except what he chooses to TELL her.

Before a woman gives her support to a political candidate she is sure to know what his policies are, whether he is wet or dry, whether he likes girl shows and defective stories or does in for chimney music and Harold Gille, and whether he goes in for companionate marriage or the usual life sentence.

But she will endorse a matrimonial candidate without knowing the least thing about him, except that he has misty blue eyes, red nose, and a job somewhere downtown, and a cute red smart car.

Now, isn't that just like a woman? And yet when you come to think of it, we always have a choice of at least TWO proposals to consider, while the choice of matrimonial candidate is NO limited! You have to take just what you can get—and then pretend that it is just what you wanted.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MISS UNCLEMILK FREEMAN
DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:
Are baby showers in good form?

1. Who should give them, the prospective mother or a friend?

2. If given, should there be some form of entertainment, as music or cards?

3. I am contemplating having one. I will have him in the morning. Is the best time to have it before or after the baby's birth?

REAR.

To my mind, a baby shower is an excellent thing. It is not a party. It is a social gathering of friends to help the prospective mother in the preparation of the baby's coming. It is a time when the friends can help the mother in the preparation of the baby's coming. It is a time when the friends can help the mother in the preparation of the baby's coming.

1. An entree may be served either hot or cold. It may be a soup, a salad, or a vegetable. It may be a meat, a fish, or a poultry. It may be a dessert, a fruit, or a candy. It may be a drink, a coffee, or a tea. It may be a snack, a sandwich, or a pie. It may be a meal, a dinner, or a supper. It may be a party, a gathering, or a celebration. It may be a time when the friends can help the mother in the preparation of the baby's coming.

2. An interesting thing has been happening in America lately concerning vegetable entrees. Vegetables have always been served in Europe as entrees, with the sauces for which Continental cooks are famous. This, too, it is usually considered that Continental know the food values of vegetables better than we do. But now, fortunately, we are gaining this knowledge, and the vegetable has to many cases been raised in dignity to being served as a separate course.

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:
What an entree? When is it served? Of what does it consist? Should it be served hot or cold?

ANXIOUS.

An entree is a dish that is served as an independent course between the main course of a meal. It is characterized as a "light" food and the service of an entree is not better than a dessert. It is a dish which may or may not be an integral part of the dish.

Entrees may be made of eggs, or fish, or all kinds of meats, such as lamb, veal and tender cuts of beef, and beef cooked in some other way.

Plot to Hamstring U. S. Is Given Stern Rebuke by Coolidge

THE secret Anglo-French plot to hamstring Uncle Sam, whittle down the American navy and make Great Britain's fleets the most formidable in the world has met with the just rebuke it deserves at the hands of President Coolidge.

Secretary of State Kellogg, guided by President Coolidge, spoke the voice of America when he replied in substance, "Nothing doing!" to the proposal of France and Great Britain.

This was the first official action by the American Government on the "Whisper Pact" of England and France since the Boston Evening American and other Hearst newspapers through exclusive Universal Service dispatches, exposed the terms of the agreement more than one week ago.

President Coolidge minced no words in making clear his firm stand for equal sea rights with any power in the world. He was stern in banning the secret pact as hostile to America.

America, even in the throes of a heated political campaign, is one with the President in his refusal to consider the proposals of the "International Whispers."

The encouraging thing is that the British Government's anti-American stand is repudiated by a large section of the British press, including such diverse organs as the Daily Express, the Chronicle, the Daily Herald, the Daily News and the Manchester Guardian.

Lieutenant-Commander J. M. Kenworthy, a British naval officer and Member of Parliament, in an interview with Universal Service in Berlin, assails the secret diplomacy practiced by "the invisible English Government, which is mightier than the invisible government of any other country."

Commander Kenworthy says: "England has always endeavored to conclude alliances with other powers against every nation which threatened England's naval supremacy. The English Admiralty considers the moment has come for a return to the traditional policy of a balance of power by an alliance with France."

"The World War was won by American sea power associating itself with British sea power. Peace for the world can be won in the same way."

Commander Kenworthy has just published one of the most noteworthy books of the year, "The Freedom of the Seas." In this extraordinary book the British naval officer indorses the time-honored American principle of "freedom of the seas"—the demand that private property shall be immune from capture by naval belligerents engaged in a private war.

He recognizes that the prime purpose of the American navy is to discourage arbitrary interference with our commerce in future wars in which we shall be neutral.

He assails the stupidity of British naval bureaucrats in trying to outbuild an American navy devoted to this principle, which he conceives to be to the highest advantage also of England, with its vulnerable sea lines of communication.

SOCRATES MAKES VISIT TO U. S.

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE of the best criticisms of our times and manners consists in imagining what another person wholly removed from us in time and place would think of us.

It is a favorite device to imagine how a man from Mars might look at us were he among us. And if a man of 50,000 years ahead of this time were to move among us what would he think of us?

It is no less diverting to think how a man who lived some years before Christ would regard us.

A series of books have been appearing during the last few years which have stimulated a good deal of thinking. An interesting volume is "Plato's American Republic," by Douglas Woodruff, one of the cleverest volumes in the whole stimulating series.

Socrates, after a lecture through 1925 America, returns to Athens and relates to his friends his impressions of the fascinating barbarian country.

He "looks into" the American attitude toward women, wealth, advertising, education, public opinion and government.

He notes our reverence for large numbers, for facts rather than ideas, and concludes to his friends that the way to get a hearing in the United States is: First, proclaim yourself an expert, and second, call everything you say the facts.

When he addressed the Hootville Business Men's Club at its weekly foot gathering and attempted to treat the failings of Hootville in an impartial, Socratic manner, he barely escaped with his life.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE a friend who has made a great success of life. He is neither rich nor famous, but in spite of many troubles he has managed to keep himself cheerful and serene. LIFE HASN'T GOTTEN HIM. Which is what I call a success.

I asked him one day how he had managed. He gave me this strange answer: "I MADE UP MY MIND LONG AGO TO KEEP MY HEAD ABOVE THE TIDE."

Then he went on to tell me his story. It was not an uncommon story. He had started, as most of us start, with great eagerness to get into the thick of life. He had felt that life should be lived thoroughly and furiously—that one should hold anything back; that one should commit oneself to the utmost.

So he had lived into the tide. And presently he was being battered on the rocks. Every one seemed to be taking advantage of him—his own people, his friends, his enemies.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—New York is often hotly dubbed the most inhospitable American city. The stranger, upon stepping from his train or steamer, is popularly supposed to be taken over the jump, by everybody from the taxi driver to the Broadway racketeer.

The train, it has no other city, has such a tax upon its hospitality or responds so gallantly. There are, indeed, many exceptions. One of the 1000 visitors daily streaming into the midst, expecting to be entertained by friends and acquaintances.

One attitude is: "Well, here we are," and they expect the cliff divers to do their stunts in the smallest communities people have engagements as a rule for several days ahead, and in cities, on account of distances and multiple activities, often weeks ahead.

Not much of a gadabout, I have at a high rate of speed, I require my attention for the next 10 days. Let the average visitor will call up from the station to announce he is in town and what form of Old Harry will be raised tonight.

It is a rule, the suggestion to attend the reigning fashion shows for which at the outside cannot be secured in less than a week, and spend the rest of the night in a scumper jule den. If the native born and have he finds decided drop in temperature, and later hears he has gone terribly high.

Despite all this, life in New York cannot be largely in snatching out of time. Friends call to the New Yorker to live of snatching out of time. Friends call to the New Yorker to live of snatching out of time.

How to Manage a Wife

to have marked how she conducted herself toward him. noted his attitude toward her. Thus we might have learned the Great Secret.

A couple of hundred years ago the puzzle was How to Hold a Husband. Dean Swift, who studied matrimony from a distance, held that "the reason why so few marriages are happy is because young ladies spend their time in making notes, not in making cages."

Now, as we see by the questions the Boston reporters fired at the men from Maine, the problem has nothing to do with notes or cages but is boiled down into How to Hold Her After You Get Her.

It still is a mystery. Old "Jim" Shaw's advice was to "give your wife her own way, she is better at calculating anyway."

The "Jim" Shaw's have been married to each other FIFTY-SIX YEARS. You couldn't ASK for better advice, as the reporter must have said to himself when he wrote it down. "Give your wife her own way."

But then he ran plump into Israel Deane, not so great an authority as "Jim" Shaw, perhaps, but nevertheless qualified to speak by FIFTY years in double harness. What would be Israel's advice to the young man eager to say hitched?

"Just give 'em a growl once in a while," said Mr. Deane. "Fifty-fifty," you see, and we are right where we started. Emerson was right; it's an "open question."

How to Manage a Wife

Advice From Experts, Who Disagree

The old folks from Milo, Maine—eight couples of them married more than fifty years—have come and gone leaving us no nearer than we were to knowing how to Be Happy Though Married.

It seems the reporters assigned to the delightful task of "governing" these visitors from Piscataquis County asked too many questions.

They should have relied more upon observation, ought to have noted the way these old folks managed to get along.
